GENERAL INFORMATION

I. REGISTRATION. A registration desk will be maintained on the mezzanine of the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. It will be open from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, September 3; from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, September 4 and 5; and until noon on Saturday, September 6. The registration fee is $2.50. This fee entitles registrants to attend all sessions.

II. LOCATION OF MEETINGS. Panel meetings, as well as general meetings, will be held in the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. The location of each meeting is indicated in the Program Description.

III. HEADQUARTERS. The headquarters will be located in Room 5 of the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. Members of the staff of the Washington Office and members of the Local Arrangements Committee can be reached through convention headquarters; incoming telegrams and other messages will be received there and posted on a bulletin board outside of the convention headquarters. All members should check the bulletin board periodically.

IV. LUNCHEON. There will be no dinner and only one luncheon. It will be held on Friday at 12:15 p. m. Tickets may be purchased at the Registration Desk. Members are urged to secure tickets as soon as they register.

V. PRESS FACILITIES. Facilities for the press will be available in the South Room of the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. Typewriters and telephones will be available for use by members of the press; copies of papers delivered at the meetings will also be available.

VI. PERSONNEL SERVICE. A special room will be set aside for the Association's Personnel Service. It will be located on the third floor. Hours will be 9 to 11:30 a. m. and 2 to 4:30 p. m. on Thursday and Friday; 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. on Saturday.

VII. HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS. The Sheraton-Jefferson is the official convention hotel. The Sheraton-Jefferson is offering a flat rate for all rooms: $7.50 single; $11.00 double; $12.00 twin.

VIII. DIPLOMATIC RECEPTION DESK. For the convenience of members of embassies and legations, a special desk will be maintained near the registration desk on the mezzanine of the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

IX. MEMBERSHIP. A membership desk will be maintained at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel for those who wish to join the Association. Members may pay membership dues at this desk.

X. WOODROW WILSON MEMORIAL VOLUME. The publication and distribution of The Philosophy and Policies of Woodrow Wilson (Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, 1958), edited by Earl Latham for the Association, was made possible by a grant from The Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

MEMORANDA

The Inter-University Case Program

45 East 65th Street
New York City, N. Y.

Announces the Initiation of a Series of Short Cases Useful for

THE FIRST YEAR COURSE

THE LITTLE ROCK STORY, by Corinne Silverman

"The Little Rock Story" tells of the constitutional crisis resulting from the attempt to desegregate classes in Little Rock's Central High School. It untangles for the student the complex series of events, and focuses on the fundamental dilemmas of federalism with its multiple allegiances, multiple citizenship, and multiple responsibilities. (20 pp., 25c)

THE LONESOME TRAIN IN LEVITTOWN, by Joseph Maloney

A School Superintendent faces a split in the community: should a cantata entitled "The Lonesome Train," which had been labeled by certain church publications as "left-wing propaganda," be banned as instructional material in the public school system? (18 pp., 35c)

THE IMPOUNDING OF FUNDS BY THE BUREAU OF THE BUDGET, by J. D. Williams

The Bureau of the Budget, during World War II, adopted the policy of impounding funds for local construction programs which had been authorized by Congress but which were opposed by the President. This case describes how this policy was developed; how it was implemented and defended over protests of congressmen led by Senators McCarran and McKeller. (35 pp., 50c)

THE GRAZING FEE DILEMMA, by Philip Foss (in press)

The Director of the Grazing Service of the Interior Department seeks to carry out a pledge made by Secretary Ickes that the work of the Service will be financed largely by fees for grazing permits. Senator McCarran, acting on behalf of western stockmen, is able to prevent increases in grazing fees. On the other hand, members of the House Appropriations Subcommittee seek to make the stockmen pay a greater share of the costs of the Grazing Service by refusing to increase its appropriations. The Service's budget is caught between these opposing forces. (Approximately 12 pp.)

MOSES ON THE GREEN, by John Keeley (in press)

What happened when a group of mothers objected to the plan of New York City's Park Commissioner, Robert Moses, to convert a half-acre of Central Park into an expanded parking lot for a privately-owned restaurant, Tavern-on-the-Green. (6 pp.)

These cases, plus all the regular publications of ICP, may be ordered directly from The University of Alabama Press, University, Alabama. The University of Alabama Press can also furnish the complete ICP catalog as well as information on the work of ICP's Committee on Case Materials for the First Year Course.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation will make available a substantial number of fellowships for the academic year 1959-1960 for first-year graduate work leading to a career in college teaching.

The Foundation is a development on a nationwide scale of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Program established by Princeton University in 1945. A significant grant from the Ford Foundation now makes it possible to award as many as 1,000 fellowships a year.

Fellowships are awarded only upon nomination by members of the academic profession. Nominations are normally made during September and October of each year, directly to the chairmen of the various regional selection committees. Nominees are then invited to file applications, which must be completed by the 30th of November. A brochure describing the essentials of the program and setting forth the details of the nomination procedure will be sent out shortly.

Three regional chairmen, Professor Charles D. Hounshell (Region VI), Professor Russell Whitesel (Region X), and Professor Louis G. Kahle (Region XII), will be available at this meeting of the American Political Science Association to answer questions about the program that any members of the Association might want to raise. For the location of their headquarters inquire at the Information Desk.

Information about this program may also be obtained, at any time, from

Appendix. How to Prepare a Policy Paper on World Affairs

Written especially for the general college student, this book provides a stimulating and significant introduction to the nature and complexity of international problems. Specifically, the text strives to: (a) create a continuing interest in world affairs, (b) develop an appreciation of international problems, (c) develop a conceptual, interdisciplinary framework, (d) challenge the imagination and creative intelligence of the student so that he acquires a genuinely critical commitment to those principles which underlie a free, just, and peaceful world.

Each chapter consists of two principal sections. The first section presents an objective background discussion of the nature of the problem and how it has developed. The second section presents three or four divergent viewpoints on the problem and how it might be solved. These viewpoints are presented in the form of original source material with editorial comment so that the student may make his own interpretation and evaluation. No simple or "pat" solutions are presented. A distinct feature is the suggested outline for the preparation of a model "position paper" in the appendix.

SYSTEM and PROCESS in INTERNATIONAL POLITICS

By MORTON A. KAPLAN, University of Chicago. Examines alternate models of international systems from the standpoint of structure, membership, role functions, behavior, and environmental conditions necessary to sustain the system. The book unifies the theory of international politics by combining systems analysis with a theory of dynamic integrative processes, and by relating both to value theory and to strategic theory. 1957. 283 pages. $6.50.

SOVIET EDUCATION for SCIENCE and TECHNOLOGY

By ALEXANDER G. KOROL, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "... deserves national attention ... probably the best and most detailed study of Soviet education generally—not only of Soviet scientific education—ever published here ... a treasure house of information. . ."—Harry Schwartz, New York Times Book Review. A Technology Press Book, M. I. T. 1957. 513 pages. $8.50.

ALLIED WARTIME DIPLOMACY: A Pattern in Poland

By EDWARD J. ROZEK, University of Colorado. A carefully documented presentation of the policies of Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill in regard to the Polish question at the time of World War II. This book is based on original, top secret documents of the Polish government in London and the private files of former Prime Minister Mikolajczyk, which never before have been published. 1957. 481 pages. $6.95.

EFFICIENCY in GOVERNMENT THROUGH SYSTEMS ANALYSIS

With Emphasis on Water Resource Development

By ROLAND N. MCKEAN, The RAND Corp. Examines the application of systematic analysis to specific governmental problems of choice, focussing attention on the possibility of increasing economic efficiency in public investments and operations. The author discusses the principles of operations research and systems analysis and uses these principles in the comparison of alternative water-resource investments. Publications in Operations Research #3. 1958. 336 pages. $8.00.

ORGANIZATIONS

By JAMES G. MARCH and HERBERT A. SIMON, both of Carnegie Institute of Technology. The first comprehensive book on organizations that brings together into a single coherent framework the diverse approaches that have been taken to this subject by sociologists, psychologists, economists, and business administration theorists. The work illuminates such topics as planning, centralization and decentralization, and the nature of innovation. In Press.

"... an important book in many ways ..."

The AMERICAN WAY of GOVERNMENT

By Alfred de Grazia, formerly of Stanford University

In this book, the author has described the principles and operations of the American government in simple, clear, direct language. His lively, stimulating account of the subject holds student interest from the first chapter to the last. Designed for use in long or short courses, The American Way of Government smoothly blends the traditional methods of presentation with the newer functional-behavior approach. No other book in the field integrates these types of materials as well.

Features that guarantee the book's usefulness in modern courses in American Government . . .

- Its frank, objective treatment, especially of sensitive material
- Its organization, which makes it specifically adaptable to daily classroom assignments
- Questions and answers follow each chapter, thereby assisting the student to assimilate the material
- The integration of the Constitution into the body of the text, resulting in an unusually dynamic and meaningful presentation of that document

"This impresses me as an important book in many ways, but its most interesting feature to my mind is its many illustrations. These seem to me to serve well the purpose of bringing government home to the reader, and so to remedy a defect of some of the older texts. Obviously the author has put a great deal of work into his book, which should find a wide market."

BUREAUCRACY, ARISTOCRACY AND AUTOCRACY

The Prussian Experience, 1660-1815

By HANS ROSENBERG. This three-pronged study of the old régime in Prussia traces the evolution of a society dominated by aristocratic standards and authoritarian government. The author shows in detail how a powerful bureaucratic clique gained control of the government, joined forces with the landed aristocracy, and formed a new, autocratic sociopolitical elite. His penetrating analysis of the Prussian-German experience is a welcome contribution to the timely task of "rethinking" German history. $5.00

CHILDREN OF THE KIBBUTZ

MELFORD E. SPIRO here presents the results of an on-the-spot study of the unique educational system found in an Israeli kibbutz. From infancy on, the children live not with their families but with a group of age-peers, in a society stressing cooperative living, the sharing of property, an ethic of mutual aid, an emphasis on physical labor, and a secular view. How this affects their attitudes toward others, within and outside the group becomes a fascinating study of the relation between socialization and personality development. Formal and informal interviews, psychological tests, and a careful analysis of documentary materials add depth to the author's own conclusions. $10.00

BANKERS AND PASHAS

International Finance and Economic Imperialism in the Egypt of the 1860's

By DAVID S. LANDES. Starting with the recently discovered correspondence of two financial titans of the 1860's, this book explores the world of international finance and expansive industrialism which took European interests into Egypt. The study of this penetration illuminates many issues of urgent concern now. The Suez Canal, for example, regains all the importance it possessed in European diplomacy a century ago. And the ever-continuing East-West problems of material and technological disparity, political inequality, business maneuvering, and above all lack of social and cultural understanding, appear here in a meaningful historical perspective. $6.00

AUTHORITY

Edited by CARL J. FRIEDRICH. The thirteen essays in this volume all deal with a single topic, authority—what it is and what its historical, political, philosophic and sociological ramifications are. Contributors include: Charles W. Hendel, Carl J. Freidrich, Herbert J. Spiro, Jerome Hall, Frank Knight, Hannah Arendt, Norman Jacobson, George Catlin, Wolfgang Kraus, Bertrand de Jouvenel, Talcott Parsons, David Easton, and E. Adamson Hoebel. $5.00

STRASBOURG IN TRANSITION, 1648-1789

By FRANKLIN L. FORD. One of the most startling transformations in history—politically, culturally and economically—was the transition of Strasbourg from a Protestant, Germanic free city to a Catholic, revolutionary French possession. This study both describes and analyzes the complex socio-political processes which effected the change, and relates it to the whole of eighteenth-century European power politics. The scope of Mr. Ford's research and the illuminating nature of his conclusions make this volume unusually interesting and important. Illustrated. $6.75

BRITISH POLITICS and DISARMAMENT, 1914-19

By GERDA RICHARDS CROSBY. This book traces the development of the disarmament idea and its relation to other Allied war aims. Particular attention is paid to the influence of press and public opinion and the effects of the inclusion of the disarmament clause in the treaty of Versailles. In conclusion, the author shows how the end of World War I marked the one moment when disarmament might have become politically practical if public opinion had been more favorable. $4.00

EMPIRE IN BRAZIL

By C. H. HARING. As the only nation in the Americas to establish a working monarchy of its own, Brazil stands alone in 19th-century history. How and why this constitutional monarchy came about, how the country fared under its rule—both internally and comparatively—and what special situation brought about its sudden collapse are the main questions considered. $4.00

The House of Representatives and Foreign Affairs

By HOLBERT N. CARROLL

There have been a number of very useful works on Congress and foreign affairs, particularly in the last decade, but none, I think, that so thoroughly studies what is a new relationship—the share of the House of Representatives in the making of foreign policy . . .

Students have long been awaiting for an authoritative book on the subject that has the range and mastery of the matter that is displayed by Professor Carroll's study.

From the Foreword by William Y. Elliott, Harvard University

THE CHICAGO LIBRARY OF COMPARATIVE POLITICS Edited by Roy C. Macridis

This series provides concise, interpretive studies in comparative politics, including country-by-country studies and studies of institutions. Three books have already appeared:

THE FRENCH POLITICAL SYSTEM by Maurice Duverger

THE SOVIET SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT by John Hazard

THE ADMINISTRATIVE STATE by Fritz Morstein Marx

HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE

By PAUL P. VAN RIPER, Cornell University. "... has all the earmarks of an authoritative and insightful administrative history. It will take its place alongside of such significant earlier histories as that by Carl Russell Fish, published over half a century ago. Indeed, because of the breadth and time-span of its coverage, it will be even more significant. It clearly ranks as one of the outstanding contributions to the literature on public personnel administration."—O. Glenn Stahl, Director, Bureau of Programs and Standards, United States Civil Service Commission. xvii+588 pp. $7.50

THE HOUSE WITHOUT WINDOWS: France Selects a President

By CONSTANTIN MELNIK and NATHAN LEITES. A RAND Corporation Research Study. The authors use the unique election of President René Coty as a vehicle for a thorough exploration and interpretation of French parliamentary behavior. "This brilliant book will be a new landmark in the empirical study of political behavior. Moreover, it illuminates profoundly French politics which Americans have ordinarily found puzzling or which they have misinterpreted."—Clyde Kluckhohn, Harvard University. x+354 pp. $5.50

Advisory Editor, David Fellman, University of Wisconsin

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE SUPREME COURT

By Wallace Mendelson, The University of Texas

This book is a case-text for the college course in constitutional law presenting more than 80 Supreme Court cases and numerous related materials. It presents a usable picture of the law today, and stresses the organic role of the judiciary in the total process of American government. The emphasis is upon the Constitution rather than upon separate, disjointed clauses. Professor Mendelson gives enough historical perspective so that students will see the genetic role of law and judges in the American system of government. Comments, questions, and extra-judicial materials, integrating the cases and their socio-economic backgrounds, are designed to stimulate interest in the nature of the judicial process—the manner in which judges accomplish their difficult job of accommodating ancient constitutional traditions to modern needs. Probable publication, Fall 1958.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT: READINGS AND PROBLEMS FOR ANALYSIS

By Thomas H. Eliot, William N. Chambers, and Robert H. Salisbury, all of Washington University

This is a "second" book for the beginning course which fills two needs. It not only includes a wide selection of readings, but presents some forty specific, concrete problems related to the readings. These problems, many of them based on realistic though hypothetical case histories which involve the student as a participant, serve as focal points for class discussion or written analysis. The book can be used in conjunction with any basic text and covers in stimulating fashion the many facets of American government and politics. The problems aid the instructor in inviting, encouraging, and challenging his students to examine their standards of political judgment and evaluation. The book is valuable both for its methodology and content and for its development of the students' interests and ideas. Ample material is given from which the teacher may make his own selection of problems. Thus the book may be adapted for one semester or used for the entire year. Probable publication, Spring 1959.

GOVERNMENT IN MODERN SOCIETY

With Emphasis on American Institutions

R. Wallace Brewster

Pennsylvania State University

A new and versatile text for the introductory course in political science, GOVERNMENT IN MODERN SOCIETY meets the needs of both terminal students and those progressing into advanced courses. Throughout, stress is laid on principles and problems of government, but the structures and processes of American government receive emphasis so that students can think concretely "about" government. GOVERNMENT IN MODERN SOCIETY contains a sound basis in the social processes, and features a thorough study of American national government, a generous treatment of modern philosophies of government, and a full discussion of the existing international situation.

American Democracy Under Pressure

Donald C. Blaisdell, The City College of New York

A pioneering analysis of the relation today between pressure groups and our over-all social process. This textbook authoritatively discusses the pressures generated within the formal structure of our government as well as those which advance group claims upon society as a whole. An outstanding feature is the objective exposition on the making of national policy, fully documented with case studies. "Blaisdell's AMERICAN DEMOCRACY UNDER PRESSURE is a fresh and incisive analysis of pressure politics in American government today."—C. Edwin Gilmour, Grinnell College. 324 pp.

Government and Business

A Study in Economic Evolution

Howard R. Smith, University of Georgia

NEW! This textbook is a study in economic evolution, emphasizing the underlying context in which economic policy is formulated and the way in which public policy is made in a democracy. A modified historical presentation gives the student a better understanding of current policies and the principles behind them. Book covers all aspects of the mutual impact of government and business and organizes complex detail meaningfully and logically. Numerous short tables clarify the necessary statistical information. 93 ills., tables; 802 pp.

Government and Politics in Latin America

Edited by Harold E. Davis, The American University;

Prepared by 11 Contributing Authorities

NEW! An important comparative survey of the political institutions of Latin America. The authors are authorities in political science, economics, history, and law who have firsthand knowledge of their subject from years of research and travel in every area of Latin America. The book emphasizes the dynamic elements of politics, the structure and functions of the government, and social and economic policy and its application. Discusses the basic problem of governmental instability in relation to the colonial heritage, the role of the army in politics, the influence of presidentialism, etc. 21 charts, tables; 5 maps; 539 pp.

THE REPUBLICAN ERA 1869 - 1901

by Leonard D. White, late Professor of Public Administration, University of Chicago

THE REPUBLICAN ERA is the fourth and final volume of Dr. Leonard White's brilliant series, which traces the evolution of our system of government from 1789 to 1901. In this authoritative book, the author examines the changing functions of the great government departments and the personalities of the men at the helm in those formative years after the Civil War and ending with the assumption of the presidency by Theodore Roosevelt. $6.00

CRITICS ACCLAIM THE FIRST BOOKS IN THE SERIES

THE FEDERALISTS 1789-1801

"Masterly in concept, painstaking in detail, based on a thorough examination of source materials yet written with simplicity and restraint, this account of public administration under the Federalists must inevitably command the respect of historians as well as administrators. A 'first' in a new field."

—William Anderson, The American Historical Review

THE JEFFERSONIANS 1801-1829

"An excellent volume, enriched by scholarship, enlivened by its author's deep understanding, made timely by frequent parallels between current problems and those of a century and a quarter ago."

—Ralph Adams Brown, The Boston Sunday Herald

THE JACKSONIANS 1829-1861

"Mr. White doesn't merely tell the story of each of the gradually multiplying branches of the national government. He livens the tale with a delicious wealth of contemporary comment on the whole business. He writes with both humor and knowledge. . . It is saturated with practical politics from beginning to end, warmed by passion, singed by invective, and not infrequently blasted in a struggle of titans. . . In the light of present day resumption of the struggle between the Executive and the Legislative, 'The Jacksonians' will prove both entertaining and instructive to many."

ELEMENTS OF AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

By JOHN H. FERGUSON, The Pennsylvania State University; and DEAN E. McHENRY, University of California, Los Angeles. New Third Edition. 487 pages, $6.50.

A completely reorganized and rewritten edition, presenting a comparatively brief and elementary review of national, state, and local governments. Simpler terminology has been substituted for complicated materials. New materials have been added on such subjects as: the 1956 presidential election; civil liberties; Supreme Court decision; foreign policy; federal-state relations; recent Congressional acts; the U. N.; and government expenses and taxes.

INTRODUCTION TO POLITICAL SCIENCE

By CARLTON C. RODEE, TOTTON J. ANDERSON, and CARL Q. CHRISTOL, all at the University of Southern California. 654 pages, $6.00

Here is a dynamic approach to the principles of government and to the nature of all types of government. Designed as a complete survey of the entire field of political science, its approach is broad and general, presenting all its subdivisions clearly and simply. The book is exceptionally readable and interesting, with all new developments and studies included. It is enhanced by drawings, diagrams, charts, and the text of the Constitution.

THE GOVERNMENTS OF LATIN AMERICA

By W. W. PIERSON and FEDERICO G. GIL, University of North Carolina. 516 pages, $6.50.

This comparative summary of the governments and politics of Latin America deals with the forms of organization, functions, and operations of the 20 republics, with emphasis on peculiar and indigenous institutions. It gives special attention to the actual operation, trends, and spirit of government in an effort to explain the underlying causes which account for Latin American political institutions.

MAJOR GOVERNMENTS OF ASIA

Edited by GEORGE McT. KAHIN, Cornell University. Contributions as follows: CHINA, by HAROLD C. HINTON; JAPAN, by NOBUTAKA IKE; INDIA, by NORMAN PALMER; PAKISTAN, by KEITH B. CAL-LARD; and INDONESIA, by GEORGE McT. KAHIN.

EACH section in this highly readable book is written by a specialist in the area who also has a broad background in political science and international relations, who has written widely about the area, and who has traveled and lived there.

The focus is on the contemporary scene, but by tracing the relevant aspects of each country's historical development, the authors provide a background which makes recent developments more easily understood. They describe and analyze present-day government and politics in their social and economic context, and discuss the outstanding problems currently confronting these countries.

THE MIDDLE EAST IN WORLD AFFAIRS

SECOND EDITION

By GEORGE LENCZOWSKI, Department of Political Science, University of California, Berkeley.

"THE FIRST edition of 'The Middle East in World Affairs,' which appeared in 1952, was widely hailed as a balanced, factual, and comprehensive study of an area which over the past few years has moved to the forefront of the world stage. The same qualities of thorough scholarship mark the new edition of the work, which brings up-to-date the swift-moving events which have marked the Middle East since the publication of the first edition."—The Christian Science Monitor

"It is most fortunate that this book becomes available to the American reader at a time when his awareness of the profound involvement of the United States in Mid-Eastern affairs grows from day to day. Among the students of the area . . . Lenczowski is particularly well qualified to act as an interpreter of its importance."—The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science

New Oxford Political Science Texts

Elements of Democratic Government

THIRD EDITION

by J. A. CORRY, Hardy Professor of Political Science, Queens' University and HENRY J. ABRAHAM, Associate Professor of Political Science, University of Pennsylvania

Long a leader among textbooks in introductory courses in political science, Elements of Democratic Government has been completely re-set and now contains a wealth of new material. Most significantly, France has now been included as a third democracy for discussion and comparison with the United States and Great Britain, and for contrast with the totalitarian government of the U. S. S. R.

The material in the textbook has been brought completely up-to-date, and all sections on American government—particularly those on civil rights—have been strengthened and expanded. For greater ease of reference, many new headings and sub-headings have been introduced throughout the text, and the authors have prepared an up-to-date bibliography, and a thorough, cross-referenced index.

Principles and Problems of State and Local Government

by JOHN M. SWARTHOUT, Professor of Political Science, Oregon State College and ERNEST R. BARTLEY, Professor of Political Science, University of Florida

(The authors of PRINCIPLES AND PROBLEMS OF AMERICAN NATIONAL GOVERNMENT, second edition, and the editors of MATERIALS ON AMERICAN NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.)

This book sets forth the development of state and local governments, the characteristics of their legislative, executive and judicial systems, their relationships to their citizens, their functions, and the problems that have arisen in the conduct of local government. Special attention is given to the division of powers with the federal government, the strength and weaknesses of state legislatures, the significance of parties at the local level, and the financing of local government.

Party Committees and National Politics

By HUGH A. BONE

From firsthand information, the author takes the reader into national and congressional committee headquarters to observe publicity, public relations, research, patronage, finance, and campaign schools, relating these national activities to the work of state and local committees. He concludes with a discussion of the power and prospects of the committees, and the problems encountered in formulating a party program through these agencies. Specific attention is given to the newly created Democratic Advisory Council. This is the first book to analyze Democratic and Republican party committees on the national level. $4.50

PRINCIPLES OF AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

Third Edition . 1958

by ALBERT B. SAYE, MERRITT B. POUND, both of University of Georgia, and JOHN F. ALLUMS, Office of Secretary of Defense. Designed specifically for an introductory course, this book's success rests in part upon its brevity, clarity of expression, and superiority in organization.

Constitutional principles and civil rights are emphasized. The theory of judicial review is introduced early in the text, and leading Supreme Court cases are analyzed. A notable addition is a section on judicial procedure giving a detailed account of the steps in both criminal and civil cases.

THE ANATOMY OF A CONSTITUTIONAL LAW CASE

by ALAN F. WESTIN

Assistant Professor of Government, Cornell University; and Member of the District of Columbia Bar

This is a comprehensive study of a single constitutional law case, from its rise in a labor dispute through its final settlement in the United States Supreme Court. The Steel Seizure Case of 1952 (Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company v Sawyer) is documented by extracts from the court proceedings, transcripts, briefs, oral arguments, newspaper stories, and selections from Truman's memoirs. These primary sources, together with the author's commentary, present the student with a step-by-step descriptive analysis of the constitutional process and its setting.

AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

by ROCCO J. TRESOLINI

Associate Professor of Political Science, Lehigh University

Written with the liberal arts student in mind, this book enables the reader to appreciate the significance of major issues facing the court today. The cases have been chosen to illustrate basic doctrines and the evolution of constitutional principles. For greater clarity, special attention has been focused on matters which often cause confusion, such as the basic facts of the case, the identification of each of the parties, and the route by which the case reached the Supreme Court.
